

Energy Boost (Energy Boost and Nutritional Makeover)

Why am I so TIRED all of the time? For many people, the drone of the morning alarm clock marks the low point of their day. Indeed, one in four Americans is so tired on a daily basis that simply waking up, staying alert at work, tending to household chores, and having the energy for ones friends, spouse, or children may take on the dimensions of a Herculean effort. When they feel run-down, many people make the mistake of relying on quick fix pick me ups, such as chocolate bars or caffeinated drinks. Ultimately, these only offer a temporary energy boost that quickly wears off and worsens fatigue.

The bottom line is that lack of regular exercise, sedentary behavior and poor diet are the basic causes of mild depression and fatigue. The only solution is an improved diet plan and regular (3-4 times a week) exercise. Fitness expert Debbie Siebers has helped thousands of people put an end to feeling lethargic, tired and unmotivated. Now, she presents 100 nutritionally-balanced recipes, from delicious fitness drinks to main dishes, to help you heighten performance, achieve peak energy, and maximize your exercise results. You can elevate your mood by changing your eating habits today!
